Dear Joe,

Please arrange for me to live in the dorm for the entire week of Orientation. Bear in mind that traveling to school is as difficult for me as for you and that I therefore cannot come for just the first few days, return home, and then come back again. Write to me confirming the arrangements and giving me the necessary information about them no later than the end of August, please.

I will be glad to help Dick with Orientation activities in any way I can, within reason, and sufficiently to justify my listing as a member of the WNYU Orientation team.

You will be hearing from me again this summer concerning the shows I hope to do this coming year: the philosophy discussion show and a science fiction program. There is really very little more I can tell you about the former, unless Prof. Abelson gives me more information about topics and such; I just hope that someone will be able to give me some training in taping and editing, preferably during Orientation week. As for the latter, I will be sending scripts and such as soon as I can get to work on them.

One more thing: I must have keys next year, particularly during Orientation. How can I persuade people to join the "staff" when the "department head" doesn't even have keys? All I need are keys to MacCracken, the padlock and door to the station, and the tape cabinet padlock. O.K.?
